Your Village Hall, not so Good News.

We have had a most disappointing and upsetting start to our year. As most of you know, we have had to temporarily hold up the Lottery due to the bank informing us that they would be closing the account at the start of this year. Hardly any warning was given and complaints were submitted to no avail. The reasons given were that the account was no longer one that they could run and we had to start again with a different account. They were most unhelpful as to what account we could have or setting it up. Consequently we could not ask you to renew your subscriptions at the start of the year and thank you for being so understanding of this. Dawn our promoter has decided that after nearly 30 years of being involved with the lottery it was time to step aside and I (Maggie) is doing the same. We wish to thank Dawn for doing such a great job over the years and being such an efficient conscientious promoter. Thank you from all of us. However all is not lost. We have hopefully got a new promoter who is in discussions with the bank and hoping to restart the lottery as soon as possible. We do hope those of you who were members of the lottery will rejoin again. Without it we would have to increase hiring charges by a large amount and do far more fund raising. This is quite difficult in this financial climate where Coe's Meadow is needing help as is the Church. There is only a certain amount people can give. We are looking for new members to become custodians of the Village Hall charity.

The final winners before this in December where 1st Mrs V Owen, 2nd Mrs C Bennet and 3rd Mr A Morley.

This year the secretary will be resigning and we are sure there are younger people in the Village who can join with fresh ideas and help to drive things forward. Please get in touch if you can help.

On a brighter note, we would like to thank you all for supporting our Valentine coffee morning. It was rewarding to see the Hall so busy with much ". chatting" and laughter.

We have a few things planned over the coming months. A Bingo evening is planned for the spring and by popular request, a QUIZ NIGHT is being held on 29th May. Tables of 6 max, fish and chip supper and bring your own drinks and glasses. We know you have always supported this event and tables sell out very quickly so book yours as soon as possible. To book ring Maggie on 374758 Thank you, as always, for your continued support.

Bulmer Skylarks

What a stoical group we have. Our first meeting of this year was held on a most awful afternoon in January, torrential rain and very cold. We were not expecting too many members to attend on such a terrible day and what a surprise we had when we had so many happy people walk in the door. We had to quickly get more tables and chairs out, gave us a happy glow to see them all. What wonderful people they truly are. We had ended our year with our Christmas party and had welcomed Gestingthorpe hand bell ringers who got us all singing Carols and Christmas songs. A lovely end to our year. We now look forward to a new year and hopefully enjoying new speakers and various events but most of all meeting up for lovely chats with one another. It is so important to many of our members especially those on their own and perhaps have little contact with one another. We will be welcoming Ashley Cooper on 24th March. The subject only known to Ashley but as always will be very entertaining. On the 28th April we have, by popular request, a return visit from the Magistrate. Such an interesting speaker and does involve some audience participation if requested. On 26th May Michael Shade from the Hearing Care Centre will be with us and we will be enjoying our summer party on 23rd June. John from E.A.C.H will be with us on 28th of July. Do come along to one of our meetings to find out what we do and what a friendly bunch of people we are. It would be a pleasure to welcome you.

Coe's Meadow
Management Committee

Memorial Tree to be planted

In honour of Chris Leigh, recognising her remarkable dedication to the maintenance and protection of Coe's Meadow over the years.

This heartfelt event is scheduled to take place on Coe's Meadow on Wednesday, 11th March at 1pm.

Please join us for this special occasion as we pay tribute to Chris Leigh and her invaluable contributions.

AGM Meeting, Charman's Report
Opening Statement

I would like to extend my sincere thanks to the entire committee for your continued hard work and unwavering commitment over the past year. Your dedication is the reason we continue to see such positive changes on Coe's Meadow.

Fundraising & Grants

Our financial position has been greatly strengthened by the efforts of our committee:
Fundraising: A special thank you to everyone who assisted with fundraising initiatives this year. A special thank you to Sam for the incredible sum he raised at his Beer Festival.

Grants: Huge thanks to Laura for her diligent work in applying for grants. Her efforts in designing and distributing the community questionnaire have been vital in ensuring our projects align with local needs.

Maintenance

We have had a very productive year focusing on the safety and aesthetics of the Meadow:
Site Clearance: Successful efforts were made to clear and tidy the meadow and surrounding area.
Play Equipment: We have successfully removed damaged and faulty play equipment to ensure the site remains safe for public use.

Lime Avenue Update

The essential maintenance of The Lime Avenue trees is currently underway:

Pollarding: I would like to thank Jenny for her excellent organisation of these works and Graham Nicolls for his hard work during icy conditions.

Thank you: On behalf of the committee, I would like to extend our thanks to Oliver Rowe, who has very kindly submitted the planning permission for the pollarding of the trees on two occasions.

The Year Ahead – 2026

As we move into the new year, our focus shifts from clearing and maintenance to renewal and growth. Our key priorities for 2026 include:

Play Area Renovation: Following on from the removal of the old equipment our primary goal is to research and source sustainable and high-quality replacements. We will be using the data from Laura's questionnaire to ensure the new equipment meets the needs of local families.

Community Events: We hope to host a "Spring Clean" and/or a "Dog Walk " event to encourage more residents to enjoy Coe's Meadow.

Long-term: We will continue to seek additional grant funding to ensure we have a robust maintenance budget for the years to come.

Fundraising: Jenny has very kindly mentioned that she will plan another Plant Sale 23rd May after her very successful event in 2025.

Closing Statement

While there is still much to do, the progress we have made over the past year has set a fantastic foundation for the future of Coe's Meadow. It is a privilege to work alongside such a dedicated group of volunteers. Thank you.

I look forward to working with you all throughout 2026 to ensure Coe's Meadow remains a safe, beautiful and thriving space for our entire village to enjoy.

BULMER HISTORY

During some recent research I came across an article with a lot of previously unknown details about Bulmer and its church following restoration of St. Andrew's Church and its reopening published in 1863.

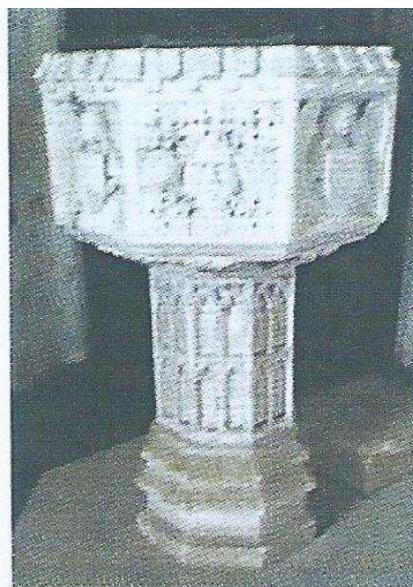

The first part of this article was published in the December issue. What follows is the second part. The whole article can also be found on the history website at <https://www.bulmerhistory.co.uk/>

Restoration and Architecture

The architect is Mr. E. L. Paraine, of Rathbone Place, London: and Mr. Runnacles, builder, Halstead, has carried out the work of restoration very efficiently, though more requires to be done. The funds have been raised partly by a rate, a donation of £100 from Earl Howe, and partly by voluntary subscription; but prior to the collection at the opening there was a debt of from £70 to £100. The seats in the chancel were presented by Mr. Burke. The church has been closed for several months while the restoration was in progress. The interior of the church was till recently filled with high square pews, and a gallery blocked up the tower. The chancel was almost hid from the body of the church by a high and very large pew belonging to the Auberies estate. Formerly there were two large pews, one on each side of the chancel, one occupied by the family and the other by the servants; but the late proprietor, C. D. Alexander, Esq, who purchased the estate of Colonel Meyrick, removed one pew and enlarged the other. As it is a "faculty" pew the church authorities have no power to remove it; and Mr. Burke would not consent that it should be alienated from his estate, but the sides have been cut down, and the platform on which it formerly stood, and which was ascended by two steps, has been made level with the floor of the chancel. It has an open fire place at one corner, and is luxuriously fitted up with carpet, cushions, hassocks, etc.. The school children formerly sat in the chancel, but benches are now placed for them at the west end.

The small tower is used as a baptistry; there is a fine octagonal font (re-cut), the pedestal covered with raised tracery, and the sides containing cherubs bearing shields, roses, of a mask with grapes, etc.; it stands on a platform, with step, and is covered with an oaken lid.

In the tower the bells are rung by a hand machine, but only three of the four can be used.

The building has been reseated with low, wide, and very commodious benches of pitch pine, varnished, each provided with a ledge for books, and cocoa-nut matting for kneeling upon. In the chancel the benches have carved ends, with poppy-heads and kneeling angels. The aisles are paved with red- and-black tiles, and the sacrarium (partly completed) with Minton's encaustic tiles, in graceful pattens. The communion rail is a simple oaken rod on metal and gilt standards, without doors. The communion table is raised on three steps, and is of open carved work in three compartments, pierced with trefoils below, and worked with the usual ornaments on the ledge above. It is surmounted by a "super-altar," and covered with a plain crimson cloth banging over the sides, edged with fringe. Under the east window is the text, "My flesh is meat indeed, and My blood is drink indeed."

At the sides of the window, in scroll patterns with blue back-ground, are the texts, "The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit," "The place where Thine honour dwelleth." The old wainscot pulpit (renovated) is placed at the east angle of the nave. On the other side are a plain oaken prayer-desk, facing east, and a lectern, facing west. The three piers in the nave, which have been cleaned and restored, are octagonal, with moulded capitals, the abacus being worked with the scroll moulding, denoting the architectural style of building. The same is used as a string-course inside and outside the chancel, and as a hood moulding over several of the windows externally.

The pier arches are plain, without labels, and merely chamfered. The chancel and tower arches are acute pointed. The north door has been closed. There is a decorated north porch, the lower half brickwork, and the upper of open woodwork, with carved barge board, etc., but much mutilated. There is also a south porch, which is the principal entrance, and from which there is a descent of two steps into the church. The chancel and nave are on the same level. The windows on the north side of the nave are plain perpendicular ones, with segmental arches; and on the south side there are two fine perpendicular windows, with transoms. The chancel windows are of the Decorated style of two lights, with dripstone outside, and corbel heads. The east window is a very large and low opening of five lights, without tracery, the mullions merely crossing at the head, forming what are technically termed "eyes." according to the late Early English or Early Decorated style. At the east end the buttresses are placed at right angles, and have but little projection. The Sedalia one of the finest in the county; it is decorated in five compartments, separated by circular shafts, with moulded caps and tracery in the spandrels of the arches above. The upper compartment has a water-drain, and was used as a piscina, and very likely the second as a credence shelf; the three others have lower openings, and were used for the priest's seats. The well-worn staircase to the rood loft (now removed) remains, but there is no door below. The roof of the chancel is high pitched or six bays, separated by principals, with carved figures, near the wall plates, holding shields, several in the attitude of benediction, one bearing a cross, one a ladder, etc.. The roof is painted blue, and the two eastern most bays studded with gilt stars. The roof of the nave is slightly tinted. There is no vestry. There are several mural tablets on the walls in the Grecian style to the memory of the Andrews and Badham families, etc.. Formerly there was a large black slab in the middle aisle, near the reading desk, "In memory of Wm. Brage, of Grandon Hall, who died in May, 1700 ;" and to his son and daughter.

Opening Service

The church was re-opened for Divine worship on Shrove Tuesday, with morning service, a sermon, and communion. There was a large though not a crowded congregation, including many of the parishioners and clergy, and several visitors from a distance. Among the clergy present were the Revds. O. Raymond (Rector), O. Raymond. jun. (Curate). St. Clere Raymond (Otten Belchamp), W. K. Borton, Rural Dean (Wickham), Irving

(Foxearth), T. L. Green and T. Anderson (Sudbury. St. Peter and St. Gregory), W. N. Andrews (Chilton), R. Andrews (late of Bulmer), Carey (Henny). Shortland (Twinstead), Burney (Halstead, St. Andrew's), A. Hanbury and A. Hanbury, jun. (Bures), Hallward (Milden), Fisher (Liston), R. K. Longdon (Brent Eleigh), J. Bailey (Great Waldingfield), Teesdale (Lamarsh), and Crowther; N. C. Barnardiston, Esq., R. Almack, Esq., Captain Foster, J. Greene, Esq., F. Grubbe, Esq., — Fisher, Esq., G. D. Badham, Esq., — Crowther, Esq., etc., etc..`

The Rev. O. Raymond, jun., said the prayers. Rev. W. N. Andrews the lessons, and Revds. O. Raymond, sen., W. K. Borton, and Sr. Clere Raymond assisted in the communion service.

The service was choral, and the responses were well rendered, Miss Raymond presided at the harmonium during the first part of the service, and Mr. Ambrose, organist. Sudbury, at the post-communion service. The choir consisted of children from the school, and assisted by some of the clergy.

Sermon and closing of service

The sermon was preached by the Rev. J. G. Carey of Henny, who took for his text Psalms lxx., 40. After suitable introduction as to the text applying primarily to the ministers of God, and secondly to all who loved His house, the preacher went on to describe some of the pleasures the true worshipper enjoyed. There was first the pleasure to every reverent mind of knowing that the church was the house of God, set apart for his especial service. Three solemn acts constituted this dedication of property voluntarily surrendered to God, this property accepted by God's servant the Bishop, and his declaration in due form to that effect; and there was no doubt, considering the days when their old parish churches were built, that all these requirements were complied with, and that the buildings were thus properly dedicated, and were thus truly God's houses. If the church was not the house of God its arrangements were nothing; the division into chancel and nave nothing; nothing the altar and font; nothing the prayer desk, where the prayers were said for the people; nothing the lectern, where the Scriptures were read to the people; nothing the pulpit, where God's truths were preached; the building was only four walls, some mere lecture room or meeting house; nothing, except it was God's house.

Then there was the pleasure of contemplating with the mind and taste God had given them the proper arrangements and decoration of His house. Should they decorate in a costly manner their own private houses and not the house of God? Thus they looked with pleasure upon what had already been done in that church in which they were met; much more was needed, but they must be thankful to see its orderly arrangements for worship, its fine proportions developed, suitable as a house of prayer. It mattered not in whose cure a church stood, it mattered not what they heard there: it was to be a house of prayer—a place where, alone, before the congregation assembled, they could lift up their hearts, or privately drop in as they passed by, or in public with the congregation, pray to their Father in Heaven. They must also especially remember that the acts which the clergyman, as God's servant, performed in His house were not done for themselves, but for God and Christ. If he absolved penitents, it was not he. but God through his voice. So at the font and the altar, the grace given was not from and by the clergyman, but from God; and in sermons, as far as he spoke agreeably to God's will, he was God's ambassador, delivering his message. So he must be received as sent from God, and if not the reproach would rest on Christ and not on his servant. The preacher then spoke of the pleasure of giving, advocated the duty of supporting God's cause, and concluded by pleading for the fund for the renovation of that church, and upon the blessing that would attend such giving.

The offertory was collected in velvet bags by the church wardens, Mr. Coote and Mr. J. Orbell. The clergy and a few of the congregation stayed to the communion.

After the service the Rev. O. Raymond, the curate, and Mr. Burke entertained parties at their residences, the latter gentleman having forwarded invitations to nearly 100 clergyman and others.
