Every Child has the right to play in their community. Since the start of the pandemic, children's freedom to play has been severely restricted so it has never been more important for children's wellbeing to get out and play. Play is hugely beneficial to every aspect of children's development, physical, creative, imaginative, problem solving and explorative.

Play Rangers are here to support children to develop active play habits in Sydney Gardens and help children to take ownership of the space for play. As the park develops and reflects it's heritage as a pleasure garden, we want children living locally to connect with the space and make Sydney Gardens a fun and enjoyable destination as part of their happy childhood.

Play Rangers are experienced at working with children, DBS checked and first aid qualified. They facilitate and support a range of play opportunities making use of the wonderful space and natural environment. They do their best to keep children safe from harm as well as provide opportunities for challenge, to take risks and have fun outdoors.

Children are able to freely leave the session at any time. Where you do not wish this to happen, please explain this to your child and inform the staff. Parents should book online using Eventbrite FREE Outdoor Play Ranger Sessions Tickets, Multiple Dates | Eventbrite and complete details on our website https://tinyurl.com/brumek7n

Whilst children can come directly from school, best to wear old clothes as they may get dirty/wet and hot so please make sure they have a coat and some suncream/hat.

British Children's Play Survey, in April 2021, a study of more than 1,900 parents, found that children had less independent play, and were allowed to play outside an average of two years later than their parents were a generation ago. They were already subject, as one expert put it, to "a gradual, creeping lockdown"
