A schoolboy who helped the 155th annual Hazlemere fete raise more than £5,000 by designing a flyer and a banner to advertise the event has been recognised with an award.

Andrew Richmond, a pupil at Holmer Green Senior School, designed a flyer to publicise the dog and classic car show as well as an eye-catching banner promoting the beer tent at the annual fete, which was held on the August Bank Holiday.

Fete publicity manager Bob Digby said: "Andrew really helped us out by designing a flyer to ask for dogs and classic cars to come to the fete, along with a spoof banner for 'The Hazlemere Baa and Ewe' which was promoting the beer tent.

"In addition, he won first prize in the Key Stage 3 art competition that was judged independently by Art-Seekers.com in Amersham, so it wasn't just us that liked his work. It was a great learning opportunity to produce something for use in the real world as opposed to a class room exercise.

"This is a really good example of cross community working and shows the Hazlemere Fete is not just for Hazlemere."
