“The personal safety awareness workshops for our female learners was one of the most exciting energising and interactive workshop I have witnessed in my working in Further Education. The feedback from learners and tutor was so positive that we will definitely have Sev back in to work with our learners again. In the workshops you can hear and see the learners growing in confidence. At the end of each workshop the learners' only complaints are that they want more session's with Sev, she is an outstanding workshop facilitator.”

Anthony Robinson, Enrichment Manager, College of North East London.

“Sev worked at a pilot event that Commercial Services hosted for New students at Imperial College London. The event provided students with a number of different workshops to enhance their knowledge and skills of happy Living as a student in London. Sev delivered short burst workshops to groups of students, encouraging them to think about their general awareness and safety when out and about the streets of London and how to protect themselves practically if ever they were to be approached. This session really helped the International students to understand the reason behind being aware but also enabled them to build on their confidence of physically protecting themselves.”

Samantha Bell, Services Manager, Imperial College London.

“We have benefited very much from the self-defence classes that have been delivered by Sev Necati Training. The quality of the planning, delivery and evaluation has been impressive and the students that took part have enjoyed the course very much. The students have reported that the sessions have increased their self-confidence, self-awareness and have given them valuable skills in how to defend themselves when necessary. We would very much like to be able to run another course with Sev Necati Training in the future.”

Jessica Bell, The College of North West London.

“This was an informative workshop that held the attention of our learners throughout. Sev has a good understanding of relating to young people and offering practical easy to understand advice on personal safety. I would recommend this workshop to other Schools and Colleges.”

Nadim Mea, Learner Involvement Coordinator, Barking and Dagenham College.

“The girls engaged immediately telling their own stories. They were given straightforward, practical advice. Particularly good was the training given on looking and feeling confident and assertive. Good use of role modelling.”

Sarah Chapman, Teacher.

“Sev delivered a very successful course. Attendance was consistent and student feedback was positive. Students enjoyed themselves, learned new skills and found the course engaging, saying that Sev was a positive and helpful teacher. One student said this course was by far the best one I did, thanks to Sev.”

Tanya Coles Programmes, Delivery Assistant, Tower Hamlets College.

“Really useful, girls very engaged. Enjoyed the scenarios, students really involved. Sev delivered the group workshop really well.”

Shauneen Daly, Head Year 7.

“Dear Sev,

Thank you for delivering the recent personal safety training session for young people at Stoke Newington School with the Exchange Project. The young people engaged well with the session, the feedback that they enjoyed the workshop, particularly the practical sections.

The workshop highlighted that although only a small percentage of the young people were themselves victims of crime, many of them knew of friends or family who had been directly affected. This seemed to heighten their awareness of victimisation and highlighted the need for your session. The feedback forms indicated positive outcomes from the workshop session, such as improved confidence and self-esteem. Yours sincerely,

Stephanie McGreevy, Exchange Project Manager, Stoke Newington School

“Our international students found the self-defence session to be fun and interesting. It helped them to increase their awareness of steps they could take to improve their personal safety in London. They would all like longer sessions with Sev in the future.”

Sara Chesnick, International Administrator

“RE: Personal Safety Training for Year 6

I am writing this letter to thank Sev Necati for delivering two excellent sessions to my year 6 class on personal safety.

The children were full of praise and knowledge after the teaching and I would highly recommend the training for any other primary schools who may be interested.

Thank you once again for delivering the training at our school. Yours faithfully”

Jemma Zighed, Year 6 Teacher

“Sev Necati delivered personal safety awareness activities to our beauty learners last week, which was a great success. The feedback from the tutor and learners was that it was very interesting and that they had great fun. Sev who delivered the training, was able to relate to the learners on their individual levels. Please let me know of future available dates as I would like all our groups to benefit from this very useful enrichment activity.”

Eleni Rotis, Curriculum Manager

“Sev was great with the new students. Her enthusiasm for the message she is trying to get across is infectious. A lot of our students are new to London and don't know what to expect. Sev's class gives them a good heads up, gets them to think about their actions and offers some useful techniques to protect themselves. Although the message is a serious one the class is fun and interactive.”

Anthony Hennelly, Sports Development Officer

“The session was good for the children to learn how to avoid confrontation with another person, as well as learning that they have blind spots to look for.”

Adrienne Palmer-Scott

“Re: Sev Necati

Sev Necati provided personal safety training for our Year 6 children at Jubilee Primary School. The children responded positively to the training. Thank you for the excellent session's.”
