

TATSFIELD ARCHIVE CATALOGUE SEPTEMBER 2021

CONTENTS

Most of this material is held by Tatsfield Parish Council or by the Tatsfield History Project. Original items and copies are stored at the Aileen McHugo Building in Tatsfield. Most of the original material has been deposited at the Surrey History Centre in Woking, with copies retained in Tatsfield.

This catalogue's numbering system allows additions to be made to the several thousand items already in the archive with minimum changes to numbering. The contents section indicates where information is likely to be found, but searching the document is likely to lead more rapidly to specific documents. (There may be variations of spelling). Material about a particular subject can often be found spread across different sections of the archive, according to its origin and/or date of acquisition. The long-term aim is for significant catalogue entries to include a hyperlink to an image of all or part of the relevant item. Scanned versions of material held in the National Archives or at the Surrey History Centre can normally be found in sections 3/1 and 3/4.

The more fertile general areas of the archive are: Images, or books such as: Tatsfield: The first 2000 years (extracts from the text published in 1999), Tales of Tatsfield, (published in 1987) and Tatsfield School Past and Present (published in 2010). Section 4 contains the results of research published elsewhere.

The 'People' link leads to nearly 18,000 entries from census returns, church records, directories and other sources. The Parish Registers have details from the 17th to the 19th centuries. The digest of Parish Council minutes (1894-1995) contains brief references to people and events during the years covered. Original minute books covering 1894 to December 2007 have been scanned. Further 21st century minutes are available on the Parish Council website.

Local press coverage has information about people and events since the 1880s. A summary of such items from the Westerham Herald and Sevenoaks Chronicle is also included. Local press items have been scanned each month since 2006. Digital copies of the Parish Magazine are available from January 2010. 'One Hundred Years Ago' items in the Parish Magazine.

1/2/9	Letter to new electors – drafted by Ian Mitchell (Parish Council chairman) in 1988 to send to people on the voters' list on achieving the age of 18.
1/2/10	Tatsfield's Surgery – note giving the background and history of the project written by Ian Mitchell (Parish Council chairman) to mark its opening in September 1990. It recalls that the need for an extension to the Village Hall was identified in the 1930s; that the need for proper medical facilities was identified in the 1940s. The £200,000 building involved the medical practices serving Tatsfield from Biggin Hill and Westerham. Grants were obtained from Tandridge DC and Surrey CC. The building contained consulting and treatment rooms, a waiting room and facilities for staff, as well as the Parish Room – used for Parish Council meetings – on the first floor with kitchen and toilet. The financing of the project was helped by a substantial increase in parish taxation – in the first year of the Community Charge. It was pointed out that as time went by 'surplus rent income will be available to reduce the impact of the Charge or to subsidise the provision of other much-needed facilities. The 15-year borrowing arrangement ended with the loan being paid off in 2005. The doctors

1/2/10/3/2	Further calculations of impact on the precept, partly hand-written by Roland Payne, Chairman.
1/2/11	History of hall – (illustration at 1/2/1) written by Ian Mitchell to coincide with its re-opening after rebuilding in March 1999. A gospel hall had been built in another part of Tatsfield in 1888. Grants and a public subscription led to Granville Charles Leveson Gower selling a plot to the church for ten shillings. His wife laid the foundation stone in May 1909 and the hall was opened by the Bishop of Southwark in September 1909. The Parish Council bought the hall in 1964 for £3000 and extended it in the 1970s. Further land was purchased in 1984 and discussions started about further extending the hall and building a surgery. The surgery was opened in 1990 but further fundraising, contributions from Surrey County Council and Tandridge District Council and a National Lottery grant were needed before the £269,000 project could be completed in 1999.

1/10 Publications
1/10/1	Tatsfield and Its Surroundings 1928 This is the first known self-contained history of Tatsfield – compiled by Tatsfield School – under the editorship of the headmaster, Mr B. Hammond (see also 2/10/1). (Westerham Herald report is ref. 3/7/2/24) (Daily Telegraph report 3/7/4/1) Among the information contained is that Colegates was then owned by Sir Henry Theobald, that the present Manor House had been known as Nobrighter in 1561, that Colegates probably initially ‘Selecourt’, then Cold Court and Ken Court and named Colegates by Sir Henry Theobald. Copy donated 2011 by Angela Cousins, daughter of Cissie Filmer, nee Adams (cf Head Teacher 1898-1921).
1/10/2	Tales of Tatsfield – Doris Geary 1987 Doris Geary lived at Pond Cottages in the later years of her life. Her maiden name was Watson. The Watsons came to Tatsfield just after the First World War. Doris was the sister of Frank Watson who ran the Tatsfield Garage in Paynesfield Road and of Dick Watson who ran the bakery. She married Charlie Geary, who was Parish Council chairman from 1952 to 1959. Her book is a ‘gold mine’ of information and stories about Tatsfield. She suggests that Pond Cottages were once used as ‘plague cottages’ and refers to a similar use in the late 19 th century. According to Mrs Geary, some of Tatsfield’s road and house names – Emily, Louisa, Georges and Edgar Roads as well as Florence Villas, Marie Villas, Myrtle Cottage, Tommies Villas and Rose Cottage – were decided by a local builder, Charles Field, (also said locally to have built the White House) who used the first names of family members. (In directories of the relevant period he is described as Grocer, carman, coal and corn merchant). The book refers to a plot for a chapel being reserved in the 1890s at ‘school corner’ to replace the ‘tin hut’ in Borough Road – the Tatsfield Institute where dances were held and the Tatsfield Band would practise. Mrs Geary suggests that Greenway – formerly Union Road – was the site of the workhouse – Union House. She also repeats the story of Thomas Bates, one of Guy Fawkes’ fellow conspirators, having passed through Tatsfield. There are also references to Tangland Castle in Goatsfield Road being known as ‘the Folly’ and being the place where Rutland Boughton composed ‘The Immortal Hour’ and to ‘cremation burials’ being found ‘when the pipeline came through Tatsfield’ by the fir trees between the school and the church where there were the remains on an old garden. The book contains extracts from Vestry minutes from the second half of the 19 th century as well as the story of the restoration by Doris Geary of the grave of the then parish clerk, Timothy Burgess .

	There is further material on the Gospel Hall in Paynesfield Road, on the formation of the WI by Mrs Lawrence of Union Road (Greenway) in the 1920s and the later purchase of the chapel next to the then Post Office in Paynesfield Road as the WI Hall.
	Other chapters deal with the school, the volunteer fire brigade under the leadership of Doris Geary's father, Thomas Watson, who had been a London fireman before retiring to Tatsfield in 1919; details of shops at the beginning of the 20 th century and references to a brick works in Red House Road, the Gladstone bag factory at the Hermitage in Avenue Road – Factory Bottom – and the manufacture of tennis rackets at the White House. There is also a description of the dedication of the King Edward VII Memorial Garden in 1910, an explanation of a connection with Ruth Ellis and Burgess and Maclean and a reference to 'Paper Jack' living in a derelict aeroplane in Ricketts Hill.
	The book contains descriptions of the snowy winter of 1926/7, Bottom's Travelling Fair in the field behind the Parish Hall, the slaughterhouse in Union Road, the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards stationed in Tatsfield during the Second World War and the Sabena air crash.

2/2/17	Report (7 Feb 1914) to the Parish Council about "the road connecting Westerham Hill with Croydon and Westerham Contributory road at Titsey Hill. Document says the areas to the south of Croydon and to the south of Bromley are "steadily growing and changing from agricultural to residential districts. It refers to existing bus service between Bromley and Westerham Hill and proposal for another from Croydon to Tatsfield. Proposes road from the "Croydon and Westerham Contributory Road opposite White Lane, via Westmore Green, Ship Hill, Tatsfield Green and Rag Hill" leading to the top of Westerham Hill. Complains of narrowness and many concealed corners in Rag Hill as a source of danger to fast going traffic and to pedestrians. It is suggested that the new road – avoiding the Metropolis – would mean the rateable value of this district would be developed and increased. The road should prove important for military purposes. Relevant landowners had apparently signified they would donate land. The road would be taken over by the county council and a substantial grant would be available from the Road Board. The report concludes with a draft resolution in favour of scheme to be forwarded to the district council.
2/2/18	Tatsfield brass band instruments background notes taken from Parish Council minutes 1913-1937. The vicar asked the parish council to take over custody of the instruments in July 1913, but by 1918 the Clerk no longer had room for them and it was decided to arrange for their disposal. In July 1918 it was agreed that they should be loaned to Capt. Andrews at RAF Biggin Hill. They were returned the next year. By the 1930s it was decided they were no longer in a playable condition and they were sold for 5/= in July 1937.
2/2/19	KE VII Memorial Garden background notes taken from Parish Council minutes and other documents 1890-1979. Mystery over whether £100 was donated by in 1922 and, if it was, what happened to it. 2/2/21	1979 letter from Simon Dothie (TDC member) to Herbert Read who lived at Deepdene, Lusted Hall Lane, about a Bromley road scheme for junction of Ricketts Hill Road and Lusted Hall Lane . The scheme originated in 1967/8, when the Biggin Hill Town Map was approved. At the time it was expected that Tatsfield would develop substantially and that Surrey County Council would join the road scheme. This had not happened and Bromley was not willing to go ahead without Surrey's help. No detail of the scheme is included – reference is believed to be MH/1513/IE. Plan not scanned.

3/8/9/4	Spencer Smith's desk-based assessment of Church Farm to establish whether this was the site of the manor house in the 14 th century. Illustrations missing from scan. Conclusions a) The assessment and field-evaluation of this area to the north east of Church Farm successful in terms of elucidating the nature and extent of the archaeological remains present. b) The walk over survey, and associated examination of the aerial photographs and documentary sources, reveals a concentration of archaeological anomalies in the area immediately to the north and west and south of Church Farm. These include linear boundaries and macular features. These features do not appear extensively disturbed, and still give good soil responses under the correct conditions. c) These include the possible remains of a moated structure, perhaps including the remains of a demolished building and also the possible remains of a previously unknown bank and ditch enclosing the site, as well as the possibility of a garden and designed landscape of some kind.

3/9/2/3	Godstone Poor Law Union description. Surrey History Centre notes. Application and Report Books from Surrey History Centre 1869-1915 covering Tatsfield people. Day of the month order, alphabetical, chronological , spreadsheet The application and report books were a record of those applying for poor relief, kept by the relieving officer. They hold a wealth of detail relating to the applicants, which may include their immediate family, their occupations, addresses, ages and the reasons why they applied for poor relief. Applications for poor relief were made either to the Relieving Officer or to the Board of Guardians directly, and the details entered into the book. The books were 'signed off' by the Board of Guardians every quarter, and a note of the decision or direction by the Board inserted at the quarterly meeting. Seven members of the Tapsell family are included in the list from 14 th April 1874. Rosemary Brown (nee Tapsell) says the 48 year-old was Denis (Thomas?), a labourer from Westmore Green who was seeking medical assistance for his wife who was about to give birth to a daughter, Alice.
