Plant and Bake Sale Follow-up

This follow-up is a chance to show some lovely photos from the day, say thank you properly, and explain how the proceeds are already helping the allotments.

The sale was a real community effort, from the people who grew plants and baked cakes to those who helped set up, served refreshments, bought produce, chatted, browsed and generally made the day feel cheerful and busy. Many thanks to plot holder Lynne Dixon for her photos, which really capture that happy throng of people enjoying the event.

The money raised is going back into the upkeep of the allotment infrastructure. That matters not only to plot holders, but also to members of the community who walk through the site and use the paths and shared spaces.

One small but very useful improvement has already been made: the new gate latches. They should make the gates easier to use, especially when you are trying to get through with tools, bags, watering cans, or, let's be honest, a courgette that has somehow managed to get itself turned into a marrow overnight!

So, once again, thank you from Wembury Allotment Association. The Plant and Bake Sale was a lovely event, and it is already helping keep the allotments practical, welcoming and well cared for. Our next public event will be our Barbecue in August.

Yealmpton Agricultural Show

Another local event worth looking out for is the Yealmpton Agricultural Show, held on the last Wednesday in July. It may interest anyone who enjoys gardening, growing, baking, crafts, animals, or a proper traditional show day. We have let our plot holders know about it as we have had success in the past. Full entry details are available online. It would be lovely to see Wembury represented among the exhibits.
